Being a very active person, my hobbies which I enjoy include scuba diving, kitesurfing, travelling to new destinations, fishing, and karting, just to name a few.

Another interesting hobby of mine is developing websites which this site is a testimony to. Being in the catering trade and working for a famous hotel with a two rosette restaurant, another great passion of mine is to enjoy dining out in some of the best restaurants.

Inspiration behind my cause

BY KEVIN

My love for travel started when I was a young boy while on family holidays.

Before working in the hotel industry my plan was to someday get aboard cruise ships, but due to a hidden tattoo, that dream, unfortunately, slipped through my hands. I knew I wanted a career that would enable me to travel and it is my passion for travel that got me into hotels. Since then I've never looked back.

The hotel industry is very dynamic and the opportunities to travel that it provides are endless.

This left me no choice than to make catering my first choice career, while still embarking on long distance explorations around the world during vacations and annual leave.

My travels have taken me across the globe where many could only dream of visiting.

“ My Services

More than ever the internet, and specifically travel blogs are a great way to gain visibility for your brand and business. I am committed to providing the best travel information and experiences for all of my followers and would love to discuss ways in which we could work tighter. I am open to press trips or special events. I am interested in partnering with PR boards, brands and companies and I am always open to new and innovative ways to work together. That could include placing text links within my website, advertorial, sponsored posts. I'm also happy to provide honest reviews on travel products, destinations and services.

I love to connect with people from all over the world.
